Department says goodnight to "Sandman"

By Sgt. Brian Sigman

The Wichita Police Mounted Unit unfortunately lost a veteran member of the Unit on Nov. 20, 2005.

"Sandman", otherwise known as "Sandy," died of apparent natural causes at the Wichita Riding Academy where the Mounted Unit's stables are located.

Sandy had been with the Unit since 1992 and was a donation by Lynn Davis, a local mounted unit supporter. Sandy was one of the original horses on the Unit and at the time of his death was 29 years old, but was still actively being used and was very dependable.

He was last assigned to Officer Chris Welsh and Detective Kent Boal of the Unit, and just prior to that he was assigned to Officer Lori Cundiff.

Sandy was one of the tallest horses on the Unit standing at 16.1 hands and he weighed approximately 1,100 lbs.

He was usually a crowd favorite when on assignments due to his gentle nature and the fact that he loved to jump any obstacle that he was put up against in training.

Sandman will be missed by the current and past members of the Unit who had the opportunity to ride on or with him.

Sandy was a good addition to the Unit when he arrived in 1992, and was still a good mount even 13 years after. Monthly Report Page 3

Radar Officer solves robbery with quick follow up

Radar Officer Mike Cathey was working a traffic assignment on Oct. 24 around 9 a.m.when an armed robbery call came out at the Burlington Coat Factory, 8225 E. Kellogg.

The suspect vehicle was described as a small black or dark blue car with no tag. Even though he was not sent on the call, Officer Cathey diligently responded to the area and began checking apartment complexes in the area.

He located a small dark blue car at 9400 E. Lincoln that was backed into a parking stall in the lot of an apartment complex. Officer Cathey took the time to get out of his car and look to see if it had a tag on it. It in fact did not have a tag but he could see the tag was lying on the back seat upside down.

During the robbery the victims were held at knife and gunpoint, then maced in the face. Officer Cathey was able to see a knife in the back seat, as well as a can of mace. He did some follow-up and contacted the apartment manager and found out one of the suspects lived in a nearby apartment and it was later determined he was the vehicle owner's son.

Two suspects were located and interviewed and evidence from the robbery was located. Detective Chris Zandler commented on the outstanding work done by Officer Cathey and contributed the solving of this case to the work Officer Cathey did at the scene.

Patrol North and Union Rescue Mission partner at Thanksgiving

The Patrol North Bureau and the Union Rescue Mission partnered again this year to make sure that families with limited resources had a nice Thanksgiving dinner.

Many programs require that citizens come to a certain location in order to apply for resources or pick up food items, according to Julie Wedan, Union Rescue Mission. "We will be delivering meals to needy citizens who don't have a car or phone and can't access resources through traditional means," she said.

Wichita Police Officers identified families in need that otherwise might not have a Thanksgiving dinner, and the Union Rescue Mission, in addition to their usual weekly food box outreach, provided an abundant food box for each family.

The Union Rescue Mission delivered the food boxes to Patrol North on Nov. 22, and Police Officers then delivered the food boxes to the families.

Neighborhood Watch appreciates officer response and follow up

Dear Officers,

I/we wish to express our great appreciation for your actions - both on the night of the DV 911 call at XXXX N. Market St. and in your follow-up responses to my/our concerns.

Thank you for taking the time to contact us and, explain what did happen, and fill in the missing pieces for us. It is never an easy thing to witness and to then fear that it continued unabated. We are greatly relieved to know that the Police did intervene and put a stop to it.

I will share with the other Neighborhood Watch members that the Wichita Police Officers were called for a serious problem and responded efficiently and effectively. I know they will be very happy to hear such positive news.

I understand that we may be called as witnesses - not a nice thing to have to witness against a next-door neighbor, but we are prepared to do so.

We do place our share of calls to 911 - we are two concerned citizens, and a couple of "snoopy old ladies," but, hey, snoopy old ladies sometimes save lives. Right?!?

Sincerely,

J.L.D. XXXX N. Market St

Identified crime trend leads to quick identification and capture of burglar

Last summer 45 Beat Coordinator Judi Jones discovered that several sheds on the 45 beat had been buglarized.

She was contacted by Mr. Eric Williams of the Ken Mar Neighborhood Association about the burglaries, and she learned from him that a man stopped by and offered to tell him where his stolen items were.

Having already started working on the burglary trend, Officer Jones had a mug line up prepared and she had Mr. Williams look at it. He quickly picked out the suspect, and Officer Jones forwarded the information to the Burglary Section and the Pawn Shop Unit.

the identified suspect had pawned property from other reported burglaries. Meanwhile. Officer Jones and her beat team communicated the information with each other and with the residents in the area.

In early September, Officer Jones and Detective Danny Farlow presented information on the burglary crime trend at a Neighborhood Association meeting. A warrant had been issued for the identified suspect and residents were asked to be on the look out for him.

Three days after the meeting, Officers Larry Carlson, Bradley Harris and Anthony Klumpp located and arrested the suspect.

He was interviewed by Detectives and subsequently charged with burglary and felony theft. He was convicted and sentenced to probation.

Officer Jones did several key things during the investigation that were noteworthy. When taken in the whole they exemplify the Chief's saying of "serving in the spirit of community."

First, Officer Jones identified a crime trend within her response zone. The sheds that she noticed were being burglarized had similar thefts of power tools and yard The Pawn Shop Unit found that equipment. Her concerns were legitimized when Mr. Eric Williams called her.

> A key factor is that Mr. Williams knew who to call about the issue. Officer Jones had been recently reassigned and this shows that she took the reassignment seriously and got to know her new neighborhood quickly.

> Officer Jones analyzed and researched the crimes and identified potential suspects. It was at that point that she happened upon the

During her conversation with Mr. Williams it was evident that he could probably identify a suspect from a mug lineup, and that is precisely what happened. Mr. Williams identified Steve Reed as the man who had approached him.

Officer Jones then worked with the Investigations Division and when the Pawn Shop Unit identified that the suspect had pawned property from two other burglaries, the Burglary Detectives made the suspect a priority.

Officer Jones was also instrumental in coordinating the Neighborhood Association meeting and soliciting help from Detective Farlow.

Officer Jones continued to work with the victims and detectives to identify and charge Mr. Reed with the burglaries. She has kept a very detailed and precise record of all events and activities she did during this case. Her complaint listed dates and times she did things and also the original emails that were logged between her and detectives. In looking at the file, it is a textbook example of how officers should track their activities.

WPD stresses that the beat team strategy is vital in combatting crime, and Officer Jones sets a fine example of outstanding beat management.

City of Wichita

Patrol West Beat Coordinators met in November to review the "State of the Beats" in west Wichita.

State of the Beat

To Catch A Thief

Around 4 a.m. on Nov. 2, Officer Rick Bachman arrested J.B., a well-known serial burglar, on an outstanding traffic warrant.

At the time of arrest, J.B. had a speed loader with six bullets on his person. The speed loader matched the description of one that was stolen in a burglary.

Lt. Barry Von Fange, Commander of the Burglary Section, had been tracking a crime trend that coincidently started on May 6, 2005, two days after J.B. had been released from prison.

Even after dogged pursuit by the Burglary Section and Field Services Officers, J.B. eluded capture. His modus of operandi made him a particularly difficult burglar to catch.

J.B. has a long and impressive property crimes history. He has been arrested and convicted of burglary five times since 1983, so he is very experienced when it comes to police tactics.

Lt. Von Fange and Field Services continued to doggedly pursue J.B. in an attempt to catch him in a burglary.

However, J.B. was conducting counter-surveillance, moving around for several hours at a time to different locations in different cars.

When this effort proved unsuccessful, Lt. Von Fange contacted Assistant City Attorney Ted Griffith and told him about several recent citations and arrests for traffic violations that J.B. had incurred. Mr. Griffith advised that he would look into J.B.'s traffic record to see if he could be considered a habitual offender, and that it might be possible that J.B. could get up to six months of jail time depending on how many times he has been convicted of driving while suspended.

Mr. Griffith found several citations that could be amended to a suspended DL, because J.B.'s DL was suspended at the time but he was not charged or arrested for that violation.

Mr. Griffith said he would amend those charges and if J.B. were found guilty on a new charge this would be enough to keep him in jail for at least six months.

After a brain storming session with SIB, Sgt. Dan East contacted Assistant U.S. Attorney Lanny Welch who agreed to file Federal charges against J.B. for the speed loader and ammo that J.B. was caught with on Nov. 2.

Lt. Von Fange believes that J.B. is responsible for more than 50 nonresidential burglaries in the city of Wichita and hopes that a Federal charge will keep J.B. off the streets for a long time.
